

Intersectorality 'next generation': a real way to tackle health inequalities ?

PRE-CONFERENCE co-organized by the UNESCO Chair Global Health & Education and EUPHA section Health Promotion

Wednesday 20 November
Marseille Chanot, France

9 AM - 1 PM

Intersectorality 'next generation': a real way to tackle health inequalities?

L. Saboga Nunes, President EUPHA HP

Creating new ecosystems for knowledge production and sharing
D. Jourdan & M-P. Sauvart-Rochat, UNESCO Chair Global Health & Education

Genuine intersectorality at the local level, what do we know ?

L. Potvin, Montreal University, Canada

Intersectorality, participation and citizenship at the very core of health promotion

M. Akerman, Universidade de São Paulo, Brazil

An intersectoral approach to tackle inequalities in oral health

H. Pichot & S. Tubert-Jeanin, Agence sanitaire et sociale de la Nouvelle-Calédonie

Intersectorality in Danish municipalities

D. H. Holt, National Institute of Public Health, Denmark

By the end of the session, we aim to have identified a range of intersectoral practices, gaps between discourse and practice, and three priorities for moving ahead genuine intersectorality

Registration : www.ephconference.eu